Philippe A. Naegeli appointed CEO at GenTwo again

Zurich, 18 October 2021 - Philippe A. Naegeli, Co-Founder, and former CEO of GenTwo, is returning to the helm of the Zurich-based fintech company with immediate effect.

The FinTech company GenTwo, which creates off-balance sheet securitization platforms for its institutional clientele, can look back on a brilliant success story. Since it was founded in February 2018, this market leader in the securitization segment has generated disproportionately high growth in terms of several key indicators – the number of clients, size of the staff, securitization platforms launched, and particularly assets under servicing.

After a good five months as Chief Vision Officer (CVO) of GenTwo, Philippe A. Naegeli takes over the executive management with immediate effect. The co-founder had already held the position of CEO since the company's founding in February 2018 until April 2021. The CEO appointment will bring the corporate vision and execution much closer, allowing the clear alignment of the strategy behind that corporate vision with the corporate goals of growth and scaling.

About GenTwo

Zurich-based innovative securitization specialist GenTwo has created a new generation of financial products. The company builds securitization platforms for its institutional clientele and enables professional investors to securitize not only bankable, but also non-bankable assets with a Swiss ISIN. The focus on so-called off-balance-sheet investment products solves the problem of declining margins and growth barriers for many financial market players. It opens up new performance potential by creating access to a theoretically unlimited world of asset classes. Financial intermediaries, including banks, can use GenTwo setup to realize their own product and business innovations. GenTwo: gentwo.com, GenTwo Digital: g2d.io
